SCOTTSBURG FIRE

Town Suffers Another Loss of Some $50,000.

Scottsburg suffered another disastrous fire early this morning the second one during the present summer. The fire started in Allen's livery stable on the west side of the square about two o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly in both directions north and south. North it burned to the end of the block and south everything was burned to the end of the block except the Scott County Bank and Everett's grocery store.

The old frame building just north of Everett's store and which was occupied as a barber shop was burned to the ground as was the two story brick building of Warren Smith, occupied by Myra Gladstein's department store, the old Loomis house, Allen's livery stable, and two other store buildings each of which was occupied by a stock of goods. The second floor of Warren Smith's building was used as an opera house. It was reported here that ten horses and thirteen head of young mules were burned in the livery stable.

The Loomis hotel was one of the first hotels built in Scott county and has a history which would be interesting to relate. The greater part of the block was almost a total loss including the buildings and their contents. The heaviest loss was probably at the Gladstein department store, which was one of the best stores to be found anywhere in a town of that size. The fire was so hot at the north end of the block that the windows were broken in the drug store across the street.

The town is poorly equipped to fight fire and the scarcity of water contributed also to the extent of the conflagration. Two such fires in so short a time is a serious blow to Scottsburg. The traction company did what it could by hauling water down from the lake.

J. B. Kieth, the S. Walnut street grocer, went to Scottsburg this afternoon to learn more of the particulars of the fire. It was long after daylight before the tired populace succeeded in getting the fire under control.

Durbin's Forecast.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Ex-Governor W. T. Durbin was at Republican headquarters and at the request of Chairman Hitchcock he made a brief statement as to conditions in Indiana. He said:

"Indiana will give the national Republican ticket a majority of from 35,000 to 40,000. The state ticket will be elected by not less than 15,000. Indiana is normally Republican by 40,000. You may depend upon it the reports that there is any danger of the state being other than Republican in this election have no shadow of truth."

All Newspapers Should Copy This.

We cheerfully copy the following: "I hope that every newspaper in the country will copy this. If they will, they will do worlds of good for thousands of sick people who are now suffering as I did for years with my stomach and kidneys, but thanks to the wonderful medicine that is now doing so much good all over the country, I am liberated from my years of torture and am once more enjoying the great blessing of good health. For several years my back was hurting me most of the time, and I would have to get up from ten to fifteen times every night on account of my kidneys. My food would sour and burn in my stomach and I would bloat and belch until I would get dizzy and nervous. I was badly constipated, and had to be taking something all of the time. If I didn't I was sure to have a bad spell of sick headache. No one knows how much I did suffer, but after taking the great remedy, Root Juice, a short time, I began to improve, and after using six bottles I am strong and well and feel like a boy. I am glad to tell every sick person all about it, because I sympathize with those who suffer as I did. L. F. Pratt, South Bend, Ind. is well known here that Root Juice is certainly a wonderful medicine. It is sold for one dollar a bottle or three bottles for two dollars and a half. W. F. To Sell Walsh Stock.

The Chicago clearing house committee met Thursday and decided to recommend the sale of certain Walsh securities of a face value of $1,146,000 to the Assets Realization Company for $800,000.

A meeting of representatives of the banks which participated in advancing the money on the securities at the time the Walsh banks were liquidated has been called for Thursday to approve the committee's action. Members of the latter body express the opinion that the sale will be made. If the present sale is made the remaining indebtedness of the Walsh interests to the Chicago banks will stand at $9,400,000.

Fire At Blocher.

A very serious fire occurred in the little town of Blocher Thursday night between the hours of eight and nine o'clock. The town has a population of 125 and is located in the eastern part of Scott county. It was reported here today that about a dozen residences were burned which was almost half of the town. One traveling man who saw the ruins said here today that it seemed that only the houses around the outskirts of the town were left. The light from the fire was seen plainly from Crothersville.

Dissolve Partnership.

The partnership of Smith & Smith, dealers in timber and lumber at Free-town, has been dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be continued by Isaac Smith, the senior member of the firm, and all outstanding accounts are payable to him and he assumes any liabilities of the firm. Charles Smith, who retires from the firm will engage in the spoke business at Freetown and will handle oak and hickory spokes.

Engine Cab Wrecked.

The cab on engine No. 1574 of the B. & O. S. W. was quite seriously wrecked at North Vernon some time Thursday night. A cut of cars was kicked against the engine with such force as to completely wreck the cab and damage the engine otherwise. The engine was brought through here today and taken to the shops at Washington for repairs.

Leads Orchestra.

Estel Hancock has been at Vincennes most of the time the last four weeks tuning pianos for Harding & Miller and will be there most of the coming winter. While at Vincennes he has also been leading the orchestra at the opera house.

REPUBLICANS

Arranging For The Coming of Taft Next Thursday.

There was a mass meeting of republicans in the council chamber last evening to make plans for the Taft meeting here next Thursday. There was quite a good crowd present and every man there is ready to do his part of the work ahead. Several committees were appointed and these committees will get together and do the work assigned them. Everybody is interested in the coming of Taft and the republicans are especially gratified that he is to make two speeches in Jackson county, one at Seymour and one at Brownstown.

Large delegations have been promised from Columbus and Scottsburg and all the surrounding towns. The people from the country districts are coming in large numbers to see and hear the next president. Taft day will be a big day in Jackson county.

At the meeting last night a Taft and Watson club was organized and every man present became a member. The officers of the club elected are Judge John M. Lewis, president; Frank S. Jones, W. H. Burkle, W. A. Carter, Charles Murphy, Peter Platter, Frank Gates, and E. A. Remy, vice presidents, and J. H. Andrews, secretary and treasurer. It was decided to have a meeting of the club every Monday night. Next Monday night the meeting will be in Armory Hall and a good speaker will be there. Join the club and be at the meeting Monday night.

Succeeds Himself.

Rev. F. M. Huckleberry has been again elected president of the Baptist State Convention which will make his third year in that important office. The officers were elected Thursday by the convention, in session at Ft. Wayne, and the other officers chosen are, first vice president, Dr. E. B. Bryan, president of Franklin College; second vice president, S. L. Roberts, Pleasant Lake; third vice president, Rev. J. W. Stark, Plainfield; fourth vice president, L. A. Clark, Muncie; secretary, Rev. F. G. Kenny, Indianapolis; treasurer, J. J. W. Billingsly, Indianapolis. To be chosen the third time in succession as president of the state convention is quite an honor and shows that the Rev. Mr. Huckleberry fills this responsible position exceptionally well.

Conference Closed.

The conference of ministers which was in session at the German St. Paul church in this city, closed Wednesday afternoon and the ministers were mostly out of the city before supper. The attendance of ministers was good and is seldom surpassed, almost every minister in the district being present. This is the most westerly point in the district and it was just a nice little vacation for the ministers all to come over here and spend a day or two in our beautiful little city. They were a group of scholarly men and report a very successful and pleasant meeting from every point of view. Two of the last to leave the city were the minister from Sydney, O. and the pastor of the church at Lawrenceburg, who left on the east-bound accommodation train late in afternoon.

Improvements.

The new Lauster residence which is being built at the northeast corner of Fifth and Ewing streets, is now under roof and the roof has been painted green. The building is fast assuming shape and will certainly be one of the coziest residences in the city. The location is one of the best anywhere and it is not too far out from the center of the city.

Proud of Cox.

At the speaking of James E. Watson candidate for Governor at Columbus Tuesday night, Hon. J. A. Cox of this place was introduced and showed the people of that part of the state that Crothersville is still on the map. Mr. Cox is an eloquent speaker and his many Crothersville friends are proud of the fact.—Crothersville Herald.

Mr. Taft's Class at Yale.

Seventy-eight was a notable class. Up to its years it was the largest class Yale had graduated, and it is still the largest with one or two exceptions. Of the 185 members, 126 received their diplomas, and of these 96 are living. At the last reunion of the '78 men, which was turned into a general jollification of delight over Mr. Taft's nomination, interesting statistical matter, prepared by the class secretary, was read.

The average age at graduation was 22 7-10 years. The oldest man was turned 30, and the youngest was 19. The average weight was 151 1/2 pounds. Mr. Taft was the colossus of them all, the tale told by the scales being 225 pounds, although there are well authenticated reports to the effect that his actual weight on commencement day was 238. Inajiro Tanaka Tajiti, a Japanese, was the lightweight, seven pounds over the hundred being his avoirdupois. The physical contrast between him and Mr. Taft was embalmed as one of the official class jokes.

Almost every political and religious belief was represented. It was in '78 overwhelmingly a Republican class, 81 subscribing to the principles of that party, while 23 were Democrats, 13 Independents, 13 liberals, and 3 undecided. Ninety-two of them came out good and strong for free trade, irrespective of party affiliations. It is interesting, too, to find that the aggregate expense of educating the class was only $129,842, an average of $983 per pupil for the entire course.

Body Now En Route.

The body of George J. Goodbub, son of George F. Goodbub, 220 State street, who died suddenly Monday night at Boise, Idaho, where he was in the employ of the Boise Traction Company, will leave that city today, Wednesday and it is probable it will arrive in this city next Sunday.

Mr. Goodbub received a telegram this morning from Harry J. Dalton, formerly of this city, general manager of the Boise traction lines, stating that the body would leave that city today and alerter would be sent with particulars of the death and the family will not likely learn whether death was due to natural causes or from the result of an accident until the letter is received.

The funeral arrangements will not be made until later but the services will be under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity and New Albany Lodge of Elks.—New Albany Tribune.

Robbery at Freetown.

Thursday night the general store of J. W. Brown at Freetown was entered by thieves and some watches and other jewelry, shoes, clothing and other goods stolen. They seemed to understand the place and took their time to get what they wanted. In the clothing department they picked out and tried on clothing until they got what suited them. Just how much was taken Mr. Brown is unable to say until he investigates fully. His loss, however, is considerable. The thieves entered the front door, finding some means to unlock it. Up to the present time there is no clue looking to the identity of the robbers.

Keefe Indorses Taft.

Daniel J. Keefe, sixth vice-president and a member of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in indorsing William Howard Taft, writes:

"I shall support and vote for Mr. Taft, who was admitted to membership in the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel and Dredgemen on account of his strong advocacy of the enforcement of the eight-hour law on all government work coming under the jurisdiction of the war department. I might say that Mr. Taft has done more to enforce laws in favor of organized labor than all his predecessors.

POSEY TONIGHT

Hear Him at the Opera House Tonight.

Republican speaking at the opera house tonight. Col. Frank B. Posey, of Evansville, and Hon. Alfred M. Beasley will be the speakers. They are both able speakers and will discuss the issues involved in the present campaign frankly and fairly. Come out and hear them.

Colonel Posey is one of the most prominent public men in Indiana and the people know him well. It is always a pleasure to hear him speak. Mr. Beasley is also a speaker of ability and experience. Everybody is cordially invited to the opera house to hear them tonight at 7:30.

Political Gossip.

Col. Frank B. Posey and Alfred M. Beasley at the opera house tonight.

A Taft and Watson Club was organized here last night and every republican is invited to join.

Attorney-General James Bingham spoke at Medora Thursday afternoon and at Vallonia in the evening. He was greeted by splendid audiences and he eloquently proclaimed the republican doctrine. Mr. Bingham is a forcible speaker and is always heard with intense interest. He dwelt at length on state issues and showed the splendid progress made under republican administrations and he made it plain that with Albert Lieber and Crawford Fairbanks and their crowd working night and day for Tom Marshall he was in very doubtful company to say the least. Mr. Bingham also spoke of national issues and in a forcible argument showed why the people could not afford to have Bryan elected. The republicans of Carr and Driftwood townships were exceedingly well pleased with the meetings.

Quite a number are coming from Brownstown this evening to hear Posey and Beasley. There will also be several from Crothersville.

The drought continues to become still more extensive and more severe. Traffic is being tied up on the Ohio river where it has not been before in many years and there are even reports that the river can be forded in many places. Sunken vessels and other objects along the river that have been under water for years are now in sight. The low water is a very great inconvenience to the river towns.

CUTICURA CURED MOTHER AND BABY

Southern Woman Suffered With Itching, Burning Rash—Drove Her Nearly Crazy—Her Baby Had Sore on Neck, and Two Other Babies Had Skin Troubles—Calls

CUTICURA A STAND-BY THAT NEVER FAILS HER

"I just can't say enough for the Cuticura Remedies. I can't find words high enough to express my thanks to God for hearing of the wonderful remedies. My baby had a running sore on his neck and nothing that I did for it took effect until I used Cuticura. My face was nearly full of tetter or some similar skin disease. It would itch and, after scratching, it burned so that I could hardly stand it. Two cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment cured me. Two years after it broke out on my hands and wrist. I cured it for a while, but it came again in the summer. Sometimes I would go nearly crazy for it itched so badly. I used ten dollars' worth of so-called blood medicines which did no good at all, then I went back to my old stand-by, that had never failed me. One set of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent did the work. One set also cured my uncle's baby whose head was a cake of sores, and I know of another woman's baby who was in the same fix and nothing else did any good. I speak a word of praise for Cuticura whenever I see a case that needs it. Mrs. Lillie Wilcher, 770 Eleventh St., Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 16, 1907."

CUTICURA OINTMENT The World's Greatest Skin Cure and Purest and Sweetest of Emollients.

Cuticura Ointment is one of the most successful curatives for torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed by mild doses of Cuticura Pills, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning, and scaly humors, eczemas, irritations, and inflammations, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all else fails.

BRYAN'S SPECIOUS RECORD.

Judge Taft Points Out the Weak Spots in the Nebraska's Political History.
(From Taft's Cincinnati Speech.)
"What is it that we have to expect from Mr. Bryan? Have we anything to expect but what he promises? Have we anything to expect but what is based upon his eloquence and his addressness as a public critic? Has he ever given any practical demonstration of his ability to meet problems and solve them? Has he ever done anything but formulate propositions in his closet of an utterly impracticable plausibility, and very little with a view of their operation? 'By their fruits we shall know them.'"

"With the record of promises and prophecies unfulfilled for a period of twelve years; with this record of a hunt for an issue upon which to achieve the presidency; with this record of repudiation, of negotiation and of running away from national responsibilities, Mr. Bryan comes forward and asks that the people now give him an opportunity to put into operation new reforms in respect to trusts and in respect to guaranty of bank deposits, wholly untried, wholly theoretical, and on their face bearing evidence of their impracticability and of having been devised by the ready brain of one looking for plausible arguments rather than real reforms. He only in a qualified way approved the postal savings bank recommended by the Republican platform, which is a tried and proved means of encouraging the wage-earner and small farmer to make deposits in a bank absolutely secure; but much prefers a system which takes a man's money to pay another man's default, and which instead of strengthening our banking system will break it down by destroying the value of the banking character and experience and capital and by offering inducement to reckless and speculative bankers without character or capital.

"The record of Mr. Bryan and his character, as it is understood by a twelve years' acquaintance with him, have impressed the business community of this country and those whose judgment determines whether or not capital shall be invested that he is not a safe man with whom to try experiments in government; that he loves financial theories that are full of sophistry and are impractical; that he advances propositions with but little sense of respect as to how they may be carried out in practice, and that he gives but little attention to the welfare of the conservative business community in his suggestions of reform. Certainly his record justifies this judgment of him by the business men. If he was to be elected, unquestionably because of his record, however much now he may seek to pose as a conservative—because of his record, because of the failure of the theory which he has proposed for the last twelve years—his election will mean a paralysis of business, and we should have a recurrence of the disastrous business condition of the last Democratic administration."

"A STATESMAN WITH A CONSCIENCE."

Description of the Republican Presidential Candidate by Senator Borah of Idaho.
(From Senator Borah's Boston Speech.)

"Now, it seems to be conceded by friend and foe that few men have been nominated for the presidency whose experience, whose training and whose sound and wholesome fashion of grasping and dealing with public questions were equal to those of William H. Taft.

"He is not a crusader, he is a statesman with conscience. He has won his present position through a cheerful, unhesitating and undeviating devotion to duty, through actually achieving things on the open field of action, through an intelligent conception of the strength and worth of our great government with its checks and balances; and the strength and capacity of our citizenship with its loyalty and its patriotism. "No man ever had a deeper regard for the fundamental principles and precepts upon which this government is founded, and no one ever had a firmer conviction that the constitution is a sufficient chart by which to measure all rights and obligations and to gauge all the demands and all the aspirations and restrain and control all the recklessness of this indomitable race of ours. Trained in the law, eleven years on the bench, he explored well the sources of jurisprudence and carried away from his work an everlasting devotion to order and justice.

"Under all circumstances and under all emergencies, he has proved himself a brave, clean-minded, self-poised and courageous statesman. No man can put his finger upon a little or cowardly act, an incompetent or questionable piece of public service—no stain upon his private life, no shadow upon his public career. And standing now in the full fierce light which beats upon a throne, with eager eyes scrutinizing every act of a long and arduous public career, no doubt arises as to his experience and ability, no challenge comes to his fine sense of duty or his patriotism."

The young man was admiring her beautiful and abundant hair. "What a wealth of it there is!" he exclaimed. "When you loosen it I suppose it drops to the floor." "Huh!" broke in the little sister of the young woman. "It drops on the floor!"—Chicago Tribune.

WASTED ENERGY.

Women Who Do Things For Which They Are Not Fitted.
If there is anything pathetic it is watching a woman struggle with a task for which she is not fitted. I have a friend, a literary woman, who married a man of moderate means. She gave up writing and struggled, trying to make both ends meet, with the expenses of a growing family. After a time she found she had no money left to pay dressmakers, and then followed a fearful period of nerves and depression in which she tried to make her own clothes.
She worked twelve hours a day at it, wasted material and lost her appetite. Everything she did was wrong, and the work of one day had to be ripped out the next. Finally, after she had been three weeks at work on one dress, she broke down utterly and wept all over the house. It ended in her packing away all her sewing things. Then she took out her writing materials and her notebooks and clippings again and announced that during certain hours she wanted to be left absolutely alone. She began writing for different papers and magazines again, and the dressmakers began to see her again also.

MADE HER OWN CLOTHES AND DID IT BADLY.

In a short time she regained her health and spirits. There's an instance of misdirected energy set right.

It is simply no use to struggle along trying to do things you are not fitted for, breaking your heart with your efforts and ruining your health and arriving at miserable results. There are certain things you can do. Confine yourself to those. If you need money, you can probably earn it that way and hire help to perform the tasks for which nature has not fitted you.

THE PIANO IN THE ROOM.

How to Place It and How to Treat It With Proper Care.

In the first place, don't crowd a lot of bric-a-brac on top of your piano. The top should be left bare, except, of course, when a lamp is needed. If it is placed near a radiator, don't be surprised if the tone suffers. The same thing in a lesser degree is true of a drafty window.

To obtain the best results from the piano it should be tuned once a month, and it should never be placed flat against a brick or stone wall. It is better, even in the case of a wooden partition, to allow a couple of inches of space. The illustration showing a studio gives an excellent position for a piano. It is placed almost in the center of the room and at an angle. The back is covered with a piece of gay colored tapestry, and a settle is placed in front of this. The walls of this attractive room are in a rich tone of red, which relieves the somberness of the dark mission furniture. An open fire and bits of gay pottery complete the cheerful aspect.

WILL ADD MILLIONS TO TEXTILE OUTPUT.

Massachusetts Mill Now Turning Out Linens "Made in America."

The starting up at North Brookfield, Mass., of the first mill to make linens from American flax makes the following article from the Sunset Magazine of especial interest. This pioneer Oxford mill has a capacity of 1,700 dozen towels a week, besides "savoi," a linen machinery waste, and "oxolint," for surgical purposes. The Sunset's article, referring to the process used by the North Brookfield mill, says:

"Some part of the $22,000,000 now paid by America to Europe for linens will hereafter swell the profits of the American farmer. This is the inevitable result of the process perfected by a Massachusetts inventor for transforming flax into linen fiber in a less number of hours than it takes weeks to accomplish the same results by the methods followed abroad.

"The invention that is to give the American farmer a chance to market his flax straw and which will introduce for the first time into American mills the making of linen fiber has been perfected by Benjamin C. Mudge, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It is partly a mechanical and partly a chemical process, and the inventor has over and over again demonstrated that he can by this process make linen fiber out of flax in half a day.

"Of course cotton millers have been somewhat concerned as to the effect of this invention on their business, and experts who have investigated this side of the question have made up their minds that if it is possible to obtain linen fiber in sufficient quantity at low cost they can make a virtue of necessity when the time comes by substituting linen for cotton in their mills so far as this is required by popular demand. But, however this may turn out, there seems no reason to question that Americans will soon be able to afford the freest use of linen from American mills that will add hugely to the total of cotton fabric production, now valued above half a billion dollars a year."

New Telegraph Company Incorporates in New York.

With the incorporation of the Telepost company of New York another important step has been taken in the establishment of the company's plans for a new national telegraph system. The parent organization, incorporated under the laws of Maine, has a capital of $18,000,000. The subsidiary New York company is the operating company, formed to comply with the transportation company law of the state. It will at once apply for rights of way north of New York city, the immediate purpose being to connect this city with Albany and to reach the independent telephone lines, which will in some cases be used jointly by the telepost and the telephone companies. Simultaneous use of wires for telephony and telegraphy is made possible by means of the Delany rapid automatic system owned by the Telepost company.

Equal Pay Issue Spreads.

Started by the women schoolteachers of New York city, the equal pay for equal work slogan is now being heard throughout the state, in Philadelphia and in other cities. Communities not heretofore concerned over the fact that it would cost New York about $10,000,000 a year to raise the salaries of 13,500 women teachers to an equality with the pay of the 1,300 men employed, now realize that if the equal pay principle is conceded and the single woman put on a wage equality with the married man tax burdens will increase to war time proportions.

NEW RECIPES.

Lincoln Loaf.

Beat half a cupful of butter to a cream. Gradually beat in one cupful of sugar, then one cup of currants and the beaten yolk of three eggs. Add alternately half a cup of milk and one cup and three-fourths of sifted flour, sifted again with four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and lastly the whites of three eggs beaten light. Turn into a shallow pan, dredge the top with granulated sugar and bake about forty minutes.

Yankee Pudding.

Remove all lean and rind from a piece of sweet salt pork; chop fine. Take a half cupful of chopped pork, roll in flour and sift. Add to it a cupful of molasses, two-thirds of a cupful of sweet milk, a cupful of chopped and seeded raisins, a cupful of currants, one egg, one-half teaspoonful each of cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg, a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in warm water and flour enough to make very stiff. Steam three hours and serve with hard sauce. You cannot get the best results from this or any other recipe unless you have fresh currants and raisins.

Prize Recipe.

The following method of making "old fashioned Dutch currant bread" was awarded the prize in a recipe competition just closed: One pound of flour, three-quarters of a pound of currants, four ounces of candied lemon peel, two eggs, half a teaspoonful of salt, butter the size of a large egg, one-third of a cup of milk and one cake of yeast. Beat the eggs with the salt until very light, add the flour and very slowly the milk; make a light batter. Add currants and chopped candied lemon peel, the melted butter and the yeast. Let it rise one hour. Bake this bread in a tin buttered and lightly sprinkled with flour one hour in a moderate oven.

S.S.S. BEST TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

The entire inner portion of our bodies is covered with a soft, delicate lining called mucous membrane; this is kept in healthy condition by the nourishment and vital vigor it receives from the blood. So long as the circulation remains pure this membrane will be healthy, but when the blood becomes infected with catarrhal impurities and poisons this inner lining of the body becomes irritated and diseased, and the unpleasant and serious symptoms of Catarrh commence. There is a tight, stuffy feeling in the nose, watery eyes, buzzing noises in the ears, often slight deafness, difficult breathing, etc. The disease cannot be reached by external treatment, though such measures afford temporary relief in some instances. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impurities and poisons. Then as rich, pure blood circulates through the body, the inflamed, irritated membranes heal, the discharge ceases, headaches are relieved and every symptom disappears. Catarrh, being a disease in which the entire blood circulation is affected, can only be cured by a remedy that goes to the very bottom and removes every particle of the impurity from the blood, and this is just what S. S. S. does. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all who write.

Some Want Ad. Results.

One evening one of our citizens lost his pocketbook containing about $55.00. He used a WANT AD. and within a few hours his pocketbook was returned to him with all its contents. The finder had been waiting for an advertisement to appear so that he might know whose pocketbook he had found.

In the same paper appeared a WANT AD. for another person who had lost between three and four dollars tied up in a handkerchief. Within a few hours after the advertisement appeared the money was returned to the owner in the original handkerchief.

One man had a cow for sale. He used a WANT AD. and had seventeen persons call to buy the cow. He says that if you have anything to sell, the WANT AD. column of the REPUBLICAN will do the work.

A stranger came to town and wanted some solicitors to help him in disposing of his goods. He tried a REPUBLICAN WANT AD. and said he had twenty-one replies. He said to us: "Your paper is a puller when it gets replies like that."

One man advertised a horse and carriage. He placed a WANT AD. expecting to run it for a week, but he had sold his outfit before the week was half out.

A Jennings county man lost his horse which had strayed away from home. He used a WANT AD. in the Weekly REPUBLICAN. In a few hours after the paper was out a telephone message came to this office from Freetown that the horse had been found in that neighborhood. The news was telephoned to the owner and he soon recovered his horse.

An Indianapolis lady lost a watch highly prized as a heirloom, from her automobile on the road between Jonesville and Seymour. A WANT AD. in the Weekly REPUBLICAN returned the watch to the owner.

A Hayden man lost his pocketbook containing about ten dollars on the road between there and Seymour. A REPUBLICAN WANT AD. was used and the pocketbook was brought to this office the next time the finder came to town.

One man advertised a fence which he wished to dispose of. He used a WANT AD. in the REPUBLICAN and he sold the fence the next morning before breakfast to a man who had read the advertisement the evening before.

A young lady lost her watch. She used a WANT AD. after trying for a day or two to locate the lost watch. The paper was scarcely out until a telephone message to this office told where the watch had been found.

We could go on citing instances without number, of lost articles found, houses rented, boarders and roomers secured, pieces of furniture or other articles sold money loaned, property bought or sold, odds and ends about the house turned into money, and innumerable other transactions made.

Of course a WANT AD. is not infallible. It will not always find the lost article, nor sell the piece of property you offer, but it will do it more than three-fourths of the time. If there's a customer for it, WANT ADS. will find him. Whether it is nearly new, or almost old, if it is still useful a WANT AD. will seldom fail to find a buyer for the article you wish to sell.

WHAT WANT ADS. COST.

WANT ADS. in the Daily REPUBLICAN cost one cent a word for the first insertion and one-half cent a word for each additional insertion. Six insertions in the Daily cost one-half cent a word each insertion. In the Weekly REPUBLICAN, one cent a word each insertion.

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple-refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal Passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-over coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1908.

INVITE your friends to come and visit you next Thursday and take them to see William Howard Taft.

COL. FRANK B. POSEY, and Hon. Alfred M. Beasley at the opera house tonight. Everybody invited to hear them.

NEBRASKA has never voted Bryan's way except once, in 1897. The time that Bryan has given the state this year shows that he knows the chances are against him again.

JOIN the Taft and Watson Club which was organized here last night. Club meets at Armory Hall next Monday night. A good speaker will address the club that night.

The election of Taft will give an impulse to all new enterprises; the election of Bryan would be a hold-up of business, perhaps for years. What good seaman fails to slow up in a fog?

The republicans of Jackson county are becoming more active during the past few days and from now on there will be more organization and more speech making. A few good speeches have already been heard here and elsewhere in the county and several speakers of state and national reputation will be heard in the county during the next two weeks.

In a speech since returning to New York, Gov. Hughes said that personally he had enough of the governorship, but he had become identified with certain public questions and could not quit. He hopes the fight he is making "will teach the young men of the state that they could do right and still live politically." The machine politicians and crooks are all against Gov. Hughes, but he has beaten them at every turn so far.

In the Clark County Citizen Carl Brayfield, an intense democrat, says that "Watson will not run 3,000 votes behind Taft and Marshall will have a hard time to keep up with Bryan." That is not a very cheerful view for a democrat. Very few people can be found who really expect Bryan to carry Indiana. He has tried it twice and the majority against him was greater the second time than the first and the indications are that it will be still greater the third. Mr. Brayfield finds that Marshall is no stronger than Bryan therefore he is also doomed to defeat. The hopes of the democrats are waning from day to day.

In the list of campaign contributions to the Bryan campaign fund as made public through the press of the country quite a large proportion is seen to come from the state of Colorado and other silver producing states. Wonder if this fact has any significance. The largest contributor resides in the state of Colorado and Senator Clark, the millionaire mine owner of Montana, contributes $2,000. Tom Taggart, proprietor of America's Monte Carlo, contributes $1,000. Ten contributors in the state of Colorado give $7,000 and the amount of the contributions of $100 and above is greater in the silver mining state of Colorado than in any state in the union except New York.

John Gardner, the painter, is preparing, to engage in tin roofing and guttering in connection with his painting. He has recently done some of that kind of work and has more work of the same kind ahead. He often finds that in doing a painting contract there is some tin work to be done, therefore he has prepared to do it himself.

REMONSTRANCE LAW EFFECTIVE

High Court Says Moore Law
Did Not Repeal It.

CASE OF A SINGLE APPLICANT

The Appellate Court Declares That the Moore Law, Providing for the Filing of "Blanket Remonstrances," Did Not Repeal Nor Affect the Law Previously in Force Permitting the Voters of a Township to Remonstrate Against a Particular Applicant—Adams County Case.

Indianapolis, Oct. 16.—In affirming a decision refusing George W. Nichols a license to keep a saloon at Berne, in Adams county, the appellate court declared that the Moore law, which provides for filing blanket remonstrances did not repeal nor affect the law previously in force, permitting the voters of a township to remonstrate against a particular applicant.

The names of a majority of the voters in his township were signed to a remonstrance against Nichols by a man to whom the voters had given powers of attorney before the Moore law took effect in 1905. Nichols insisted that new powers of attorney were necessary under the new law but the court says that all the principal provisions of the old law are retained unchanged in the new law, and must be treated as having been continuously in force.

TRIES TO KILL EMPLOYER

Jack Coffey Empties Double Barrel Shotgun at William Wooley.

Boonville, Ind., Oct. 16.—William Wooley, manager of the Polk Patch coal mines near Degonia Springs, was fired on by Jack Coffey, a discharged night watchman. Wooley was uninjured.

Coffey has been drinking freely for the last week and had failed to report for work several times. As no dependence could be placed in him a new watchman was employed. When Coffey reported he was informed that he was discharged until he quit drinking. Instead of going home he went for a shotgun and returned to the mines.

When he returned Wooley was starting for home. Following him, Coffey emptied both barrels of his shotgun at Wooley. Wooley came to Boonville and swore out a warrant for Coffey who was arrested and placed in jail here. Assault with intent to kill is the charge.

BREWERS AFTER BINGHAM

Attorney General's Activity Against Brewery Saloons Recalled.

Indianapolis, Oct. 16.—Talk that is going the rounds of political circles just now is to the effect that James Bingham, attorney general and Republican candidate for re-election, is one of the chief targets of the brewers of Indiana in the present campaign. The brewers, and especially those who, according to Bingham's view, have been violating their charters by operating saloons, have a particular grievance against Mr. Bingham, who it is admitted has struck telling blows against the brewers and their forces. From the time Mr. Bingham filed his complaints against five Indiana brewing companies, seeking to revoke their charters, politicians say, he has been slated by the brewers for defeat. After the first excitement incident to the filing of these suits and the attendant preliminaries, the fight died down to an extent, but when recent decisions were given in the Marion superior court which constituted another victory for Mr. Bingham in his battle against breweries and the brewery control of saloons, the fight against him was begun anew.

Chairman Hendren of the Democratic speakers' bureau and Will Hayes, who holds a similar position at the Republican headquarters, are up to their eyes in work. They are arranging for the tours of the two presidential candidates next week. Hayes's work is heavier because Taft will be in Indiana three days, while Bryan will be in the state only on next Tuesday. Bryan will make fifteen speeches on that day and will return to Indiana on Oct. 31, while he is enroute home to vote. Taft will make forty-four speeches in this state.

Governor Hanly has canceled all of his lecture and speaking engagements for this month and will remain in Indiana to give all of his available time to the Republican campaign. The governor was to have spoken in Pennsylvania and at points in other states. He will speak at Peru this afternoon, at Rushville tonight, at Berne on Saturday afternoon, at Fort Wayne Saturday night, Jeffersonville Monday night, Corydon Tuesday afternoon and Spiceland Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. H. S. Sherwood The Chronic Specialist

Has been in Seymour since July 1st and is here to stay. Within this short time he has built up quite a large practice that is growing every day. The reason for this is that he has given each and every patient such satisfaction and so greatly benefited them that they give him a good reputation to others. His treatment for Piles; Fistula; Catarrh; Goitre; Female Complaints; Indigestion; Blood, Skin and Nervous Diseases is so far superior to treatment commonly obtained from other physicians that there is no comparison. The greatest reason for the successful way in which Dr. Sherwood handles chronic disease is that he knows all about the few diseases of which he makes a specialty and does not pretend to treat acute disease such as fever, etc. Stick to your family physician for acute troubles, but go to Dr. Sherwood for chronic ones. The "Devil" Show Company drew a good crowd to the Seymour Opera House Thursday evening. The lower floor was well filled and there was a good crowd in the gallery. INDIANA LABOR FEDERATION SOLD OUT TO THE BREWERS

Story of the Prostitution of Organized Labor in This State to the Democratic Liquor Alliance Confederation.

[Louis Ludlow in Indianapolis Star.]

Vincennes, Indiana.—As a result of its surrender to the domination of the brewery and whisky element of the state, and its willingness to play Democratic politics, the Indiana Federation of Labor is threatened with the worst split in its history.

The federation capped the climax of a series of remarkable performances by adopting extreme anti-temperance resolutions which assail the Indiana Anti-Saloon League and declare for the right of the individual to drink anything he pleases "and not what fanatical reformers may permit him to imbibe."

Those resolutions were introduced by Edgar L. Brown of Terre Haute, ex-president of the State League of Bartenders. They were presented on the opening day of the session, but not until today did any one believe they had a chance of passage. The bartenders, brewery employs and allied craftsmen, aided by the pressure from the outside, organized a campaign, however, and in the closing hours of the federation's session put the resolutions through by a vote of two to one, eighty-six ballots being cast for the resolution and forty-three against it.

This final act, indicating that the federation had passed into the complete control of the liquor element, immediately caused a rupture that is likely to prove of incalculable damage to the trades union movement in Indiana. Murmurs of dissension and disapproval were heard on all sides, and some of those who voted for the resolution were convinced on sober second thought that a serious mistake had been made.

Miners May Withdraw.

The storm broke in earnest when the delegates representing the organized miners of the state, 18,000 in number, held a conference and freely spoke their opinions.

George Hargrove of Terre Haute, a member of the international board of the United Mine Workers, said after the conference:

"This action means the withdrawal of the mine workers of Indiana from the state federation. We are going back to the local unions of miners and advise them to terminate their relations with the state federation. Organized labor cannot afford to be dominated by any political party or by the whisky interest."

Mr. Hargrove said there was no division of sentiment among those who attended the conference as to advising the locals to break off relations with the federation. The five delegates at large representing the miners of Indiana in the federation's sessions were W. D. VanHorn of Terre Haute, president of the Indiana Mine Workers; David Curry, vice president of the state organization; Charles Cox, secretary treasurer; George Hargrove, international board member, and Cair Littlejohn of Hymera. All five, it was announced, attended the conference.

Mr. Littlejohn was emphatic in repudiating the action of the federation.

"Every organized miner in Indiana will now withdraw from the federation unless I am greatly mistaken," he said. "It is very plain now that the brewers and whisky men, as a result of a long and careful campaign, have captured the federation and propose to use it as an asset for the Democratic party. The duty of every true union man is to show his resentment by withdrawing from the federation."

Miners Stand Firm.

Altogether there were eleven miners' delegates in the federation and they stood like a stone wall in opposition to a surrender to the liquor element. Not one of them showed the slightest signs of weakening.

That the liquor forces have been waging a long and active campaign to control the federation is shown by the fact that the organized saloon keepers and bartenders of the state, who are only 1,500 in number, had twenty-two delegates on the floor of the federation, while the organized miners of the state, who exceed 18,000, had eleven delegates. The barkeepers, having a hunch that their services would be needed, had exhausted their quota of representation, while the miners and other crafts, not suspecting a movement to capture the federation, were caught napping.

The resolutions which put the federation on record as a liquor organization filled two closely typewritten pages. The preamble enumerates all the crafts belonging to the trades union movement in Indiana, and the resolutions continue as follows:

"Whereas, if the same energies were devoted to the passage of pure food laws that are devoted to the prevention of the sale of liquors, vinous, malt and extracts, a great deal of good service could be rendered to society which would tend to help the human race to reach the zenith.

"Whereas, every one of the referred-to crafts would manifest deep interest in questions affecting their future welfare were the subject matter offered in such form as to direct their attention to proposed restriction of their employment or prevention of prohibition of the articles that they are engaged in producing, and

"Whereas, As every craft and trade mentioned in the foregoing would be affected by the wholesale discharge of trade union workers as is contemplated in the campaign of so-called prohibitionists, that few of the mentioned trades but what are directly or indirectly engaged in producing that which is utilized by the establishment where beverages are brewed, distilled or sold; and

"Whereas, The Anti-Saloon Leagues and their associated organizations are notoriously abhorrent of the union label, refusing to patronize other than establishments where cheap labor is employed; that out of the hundreds of thousands of dollars expended for agitation material in printed form, said Anti-Saloon leagues have absolutely not spent one penny with the union print-shops of the land; that not a single piece of literature employed by the Anti-Saloon Leagues bears the allied printers label; and,

"Whereas, the successful outcome of an anti-saloon campaign in this state depends on the votes of the workmen; that such success means the displacement of thousands of trade union workers, men who would necessarily be forced to find occupation at crafts other than those at which they are now employed, thus increasing the severe competition for jobs held by those now employed, and all in all creating a condition that would mean hardship and privation to all; therefore be it

"Resolved, That this organization do enter its most emphatic protest against any further tampering with state or municipal laws that have for their purpose the closing of such establishments and the prevention of making or sending the products of breweries, distilleries and vineyards; and,

"Resolved, That we hereby appeal to our membership throughout the state to decline to vote or aid in any manner whatever any party or organization that has for its purpose the restricting of the rights and personal liberty of the men and women of the state or may become such hereafter; and

"Resolved, That we are thoroughly opposed to any legislation that does not contemplate the right to live and labor under just and proper conditions, giving to each citizen the freedom granted to him by the constitution of the land, that he may worship where he pleases and in his own way, that he may eat and drink that which he believes is best for himself and not what fanatical reformers may permit him to imbibe."

Miners Sound Warning.

The resolutions provoked a hot discussion. M. M. Lollo of Terre Haute took the floor.

"If we adopt this," he said, "we go on record against any attempt to regulate low, measly places in the saloon business. Why bring upon us the hostility of many of the best people in the state by adopting such a foolish resolution?"

W. D. VanHorn, president Indiana Mine Workers, said: "I warn you that the adoption of this resolution can't do any good and it may do a wonderful lot of harm."

When George W. Lackey of Dugger, a mine workers' delegate and Socialist nominee for congress, was making an argument against the resolution showing that "dry" towns mean increased bank accounts, the bartenders and brewery workers groaned, and John Hughes, an Indianapolis iron molder, arose to a point of order:

"My point," said he, "is that we're not here to listen to a temperance speech."

President Perkins held Lackey was proceeding in order, and Hughes appealed from the decision of the chair. The chair was sustained. Lackey continued, shook his finger at the brewery delegates and said:

"You may be able to carry this through here, but I warn you in all honesty and sincerity that you will have to answer to your constituents who are absolutely opposed to it."

A motion to recommit the resolutions failed to carry and they were then adopted amid loud cheering from the bartenders, beer drivers and Democratic politicians present.

Adopt Anti-Watson Resolution.

The second event in importance was the adoption of anti-Watson resolutions. The same brewery influences that put through the resolutions which promise to split the federation, was actively at work against Watson.

The attack on Watson was skillfully engineered so that few persons knew what was impending until the political action committee brought in the resolutions.

[By W. H. Blodgett, Staff Correspondent of the Indianapolis News.]

Vincennes, Indiana.—The Indiana Federation of Labor before adjourning put itself on record against anti-saloon legislation. The liquor question caused a warm discussion. The resolutions on this subject were introduced by Edgar L. Brown of Terre Haute, former president of the State League of Bartenders, and their adoption was urged by the bartenders, brewery employees and allied crafts. Many delegates expressed the opinion last night that the adoption of the resolution was the worst blow ever dealt the federation.

Liquor Question Resolutions.

The resolutions came up in the last hours of the convention, and though such men as W. D. VanHorn, M. M. Lollo, George W. Lackey, Daniel Patterson, Clayton H. Johnson of Fort Wayne, and a number of others made a hard fight against the resolutions, they were adopted by an aye and nay vote of 129 to 46. An effort was made to refer them to a committee that was to report at the next session of the federation, but that was voted down and the convention went on record as indorsing the liquor traffic and opposing the Anti-Saloon League and similar organizations.

President VanHorn of the mine workers sounded a warning when he said: "It can do us no good—it will do us lots of harm."

G. W. Lackey declared the resolutions embodied a question that should never have been brought into the convention and declared that if the convention passed them organized labor would regret it. He declared that a moral question was involved and "you cannot build a man up unless you build him up morally, and these resolutions are not ones in which morals enter."

John Hughes interrupted Mr. Lackey with the declaration that the delegates were not there to listen to a temperance speech, which brought Hughes considerable applause from the bartenders and their friends.

M. M. Lollo of Terre Haute, a member of the Glass Bottle Makers' union, declared that the adoption of such resolutions committed the Federation of Labor against any policy to regulate the saloons. "Everyone knows," said Mr. Lollo, "that there are places that ought to be put out of the business. I am opposed to going into war with the Anti-Saloon League or similar organizations. We have nothing to gain by such a thing."

Daniel Patterson of Terre Haute declared that the adoption of the resolution "will array against the federation a moral sentiment that it will need in the future."

But in spite of all efforts the resolutions were adopted. However, it should be explained that a great number of the delegates had left the hall when the vote was taken, and, though the resolutions go on record as the voice of organized labor, it is really not the voice of organized labor. The eleven delegates, representing 16,000 miners, voted against them, the carpenters voted against them, in fact, nearly all the trades were against them, except the bartenders, who had eighteen delegates in the convention, representing about 900, and these directly connected with the saloon business.

Temperance Friends Caught Off Guard. There is not much doubt in the minds of many of the delegates that the resolutions were drawn at the request of the liquor interests, and were sent here to be passed at a time when the friends of law and order and temperance, who are in the majority were off their guard.

Delegate Patterson of Terre Haute, who is a glass worker, caused some commotion by declaring that he had been told that unless he voted for the resolution he would lose his job when he got back to Terre Haute.

Those who have the best interests of the federation at heart feel that the capture of the convention by the bartenders was a serious mistake.

LEADERSON WATSON

Fairbanks and Beveridge Pay Tribute to Next Governor of Indiana.

The Republican party is firmly united and harmonious. The leaders are loyally working for the success of the ticket. Mr. Watson has the hearty support of Fairbanks, Beveridge and Hemenway. In his speech at Lebanon Vice President Fairbanks paid the following tribute to the Republican candidate for governor:

"He has been honest, brave, straight forward, able and forceful in the discharge of his public functions. If called to the governor's chair of Indiana the distinguished congressman will keep his faith with the people and maintain the high record of the office set by his distinguished predecessors by devotion to duty and by bringing to the service intelligent, business-like judgment. We have presented a man well worthy the confidence and support of the people of the state, the Hon. James E. Watson. Mr. Watson professes no virtues superior to his party, but is always to be found loyally standing up for it, courageously and without apology. He took his stand squarely and strongly in support of the platform of his party, and when the supreme test came, when the fate of the local option bill was in the balance, he threw the weight of his potential influence on the side of the measure and is entitled to his full share of the credit for the enactment of the law to which his party stood pledged, and which was clearly demanded by a majority of the people of the state. He neither sought to shirk nor evade the issue, but boldly championed his party's cause and made good the party's pledge."

Senator Beveridge in his first speech in the state, at Terre Haute, praised Mr. Watson in the following words:

"Our candidate has had twelve years' experience in congress. He has risen by force of peculiar qualities to be the 'whip' of the house, and when we remember that the house has nearly 400 members, of whom nearly 300 are Republicans, we see how great that distinction is. He is able; he is highly trained, and is one of the most brilliant orators that Indiana has produced. The Republican party has chosen him as our standard bearer, and now let every Republican rally around that standard and by an overwhelming majority elect as the next governor of Indiana that eloquent man and skilled legislator, James E. Watson."

While a majority of the people's representatives in the legislature obeyed the will of the majority of their constituents in passing the county local option law, the high duty of all temperance men of all parties is to endorse their action at the polls in November. The first Tuesday of next month is a real referendum day in Indiana. Mr. Taft says his mission is to help clinch the Roosevelt policies. Take a tip from Taft and forget not your mission to clinch the leading policy of the Republican party in Indiana this year—and get as many as you can to join you in your dutiful mission.

Tom Marshall has made his record as the willing tool of Tom Taggart and the brewery and saloon combine. He put forth every possible effort to prevent the enactment of the county local option law. He has willingly taken orders from the boss gamblers of the state and has prostrated himself at the boots of the brewery trust. He has failed. Henceforth, to the end of the campaign he must put in his time serving his masters. It all must mean that if elected he will do all in his power to accomplish the repeal of the county option law. In no other way can he be consistent. In no other way can he continue to wear the collar of the brewery trust.—Kokomo Tribune.

There is no question as to what the issue is in Indiana this year in view of the character of the fight at Muncie. The question up to the people is: "Shall the brewers rule, or shall the people manage their own affairs?" Whatever the outcome the cause as espoused by the Republican party is one for which the Republican party can afford to be defeated, if need be. However, it has no intention whatever of getting licked.—Marion Chronicle.

The paramount issue of this campaign has been settled, a little prematurely, it is true, but satisfactorily to the majority of the people in this state. A Republican victory is now assured.—Rushville Republican.

WHY FARMERS SHOULD VOTE REPUBLICAN TICKET

Farm Lands and Farm Products Doubled In Prices In Twelve Years—Protective Tariff and Republican Policies Largely Responsible For Such Marvellous Prosperity.

The farmers of the country are the most favored class of all our people. During the last twelve years the value of their land and the value of their products have doubled. No such record is made in any other business in the world. And while the prices of their products have doubled, the cost of the things they buy is no more than in 1896. The markets will show that groceries (such as the farmer buys), dry-goods, clothing and agricultural implements are no higher now than twelve years ago. And while statistics are not at hand showing the prices of farm land, yet every owner of a farm knows that he can get twice as much for his farm now as during the last fatal administration of the Democratic party. But when it comes to the market of farm products, the statistics are easily at hand. Below will be found the quotations on farm products as found in the Indianapolis Journal of October 5, 1896, and in the Indianapolis News of October 5, 1908. In each column we give the top prices on each article. Let every farmer read and study these prices before casting his ballot in November. The prices of 1896 were the result of four years of free trade, incompetent Democratic rule.

The prices of 1908 follow twelve years of protective tariff, wise and capable Republican administration. Which do you prefer? Here are the figures:

	Oct. 5, 1896.	Oct. 5, 1908.
WHEAT	68c.	$ 1.00
CORN	24c.	78½c.
OATS	20c.	50½c.
HAY	$9.00	12.25
HOGS (top)	3.40	7.00
CATTLE (top)	4.65	7.00
HENS	6½c.	9c.
CHICKENS	6c.	12c.
TURKEYS	8c.	12c.
BUTTER	7½c.	14c.
EGGS	14c.	21c.

Careful estimate on the above figures will show that the farmers of Indiana have gained under Republican rule as follows:

Increase In Value of Land	$500,000,000
Annual Increase Farm Products	$200,000,000

COUNTRY VOTE MOST POWERFUL

Everybody knows now that the Indiana Federation of Labor has been kidnapped by Taggart and the brewers and enlisted to help them fight the temperance people of the state in this campaign. All union men are not bound by the official action of the federation and its Democratic officers, but the fact that the state's central body of organized laborers has tethered itself to Taggart's wagon is significant. All card men under the influence of Perkins and his satellites will vote the Democratic state and legislative ticket, thinking it will help the brewery employes and saloon bartenders. Probably they will have free drinks from now till election day.

But this play of the brewers need not discourage the temperance voters of Indiana in their duty, which is to support the candidates who stand for their principles. All the people of this grand old commonwealth of ours do not live in cities large and small. You have heard it said that what town folks want the state must have. That is not true. Not quite one-fourth of the state's population live and vote in incorporated cities of 8,000 and over. Read that again. It is true, though it is doubtful if the political workers of the party organizations realize it fully or remember the fact constantly. There is no reason for Republicans to be downcast. The rural vote of Indiana is much larger than the urban vote. When the last federal census was taken only 24 per cent of the state's population was found in cities large and small.

With the farmers and the residents of the little country towns and villages rests the power to say what shall be done in the legislature. The party complexion of the general assembly they have the making of. The temperance issue is still with us. It is not a party issue, except in so far as the Republicans as a party have made it theirs, and it appeals to men who on national questions may differ but are together on the need of controlling the open saloon for the protection of their homes and home folk. Many of these men, especially in Democratic dry communities in the southern counties, may think the issue was removed from this campaign by enactment of the option law. That thought may cost us many votes.

The issue is still with us. The election of a Republican majority for the lower house of the legislature is a necessity to clinch that law and prevent its repeal or its emasculating by amendment. Thousands who have voted the Republican ticket in the past will vote the other way next month. They are employes of breweries and saloons or are brothers-in-law of the liquor business. You can see that party lines are broken. It is temperance and civic morality against the open saloon and social wickedness. Every vote is needed to combat and beat the brewers. Men who live on the cross-roads, in the villages and on our rural roads can do it. They have a preponderance in numbers. They have the voting power to secure just legislation and keep it on the statute books when it is put there. We believe they will exercise it next month for their own good and the good of the whole state and keep in power the only temperance party Indiana has ever had.

The question in the legislature seems to be the county unit vs. the township unit. A prominent farmer in Buckcreek township has well expressed his stand on the subject. "When," he says, "they use the county unit in reaping the harvest, I am in favor of a county unit for sowing the seed. What good is it to vote the saloons out of my township, when I have to pay taxes to keep up the county courts and the county jail and the county poor farm, which are all kept running by the saloons in other townships? When I have to help pay the bills, I want to have a say-so on how much they are going to be."—Greenfield Republican.

The Republican party has passed through its legislature the local option bill asked by the Anti-Saloon League and temperance people. The law is now on the statute book. It was put there by Republicans. The fight now will be to keep it there. Temperance people must keep up the fight for the Republican legislature. Defeat means repeal of the law. Elkhart Review.

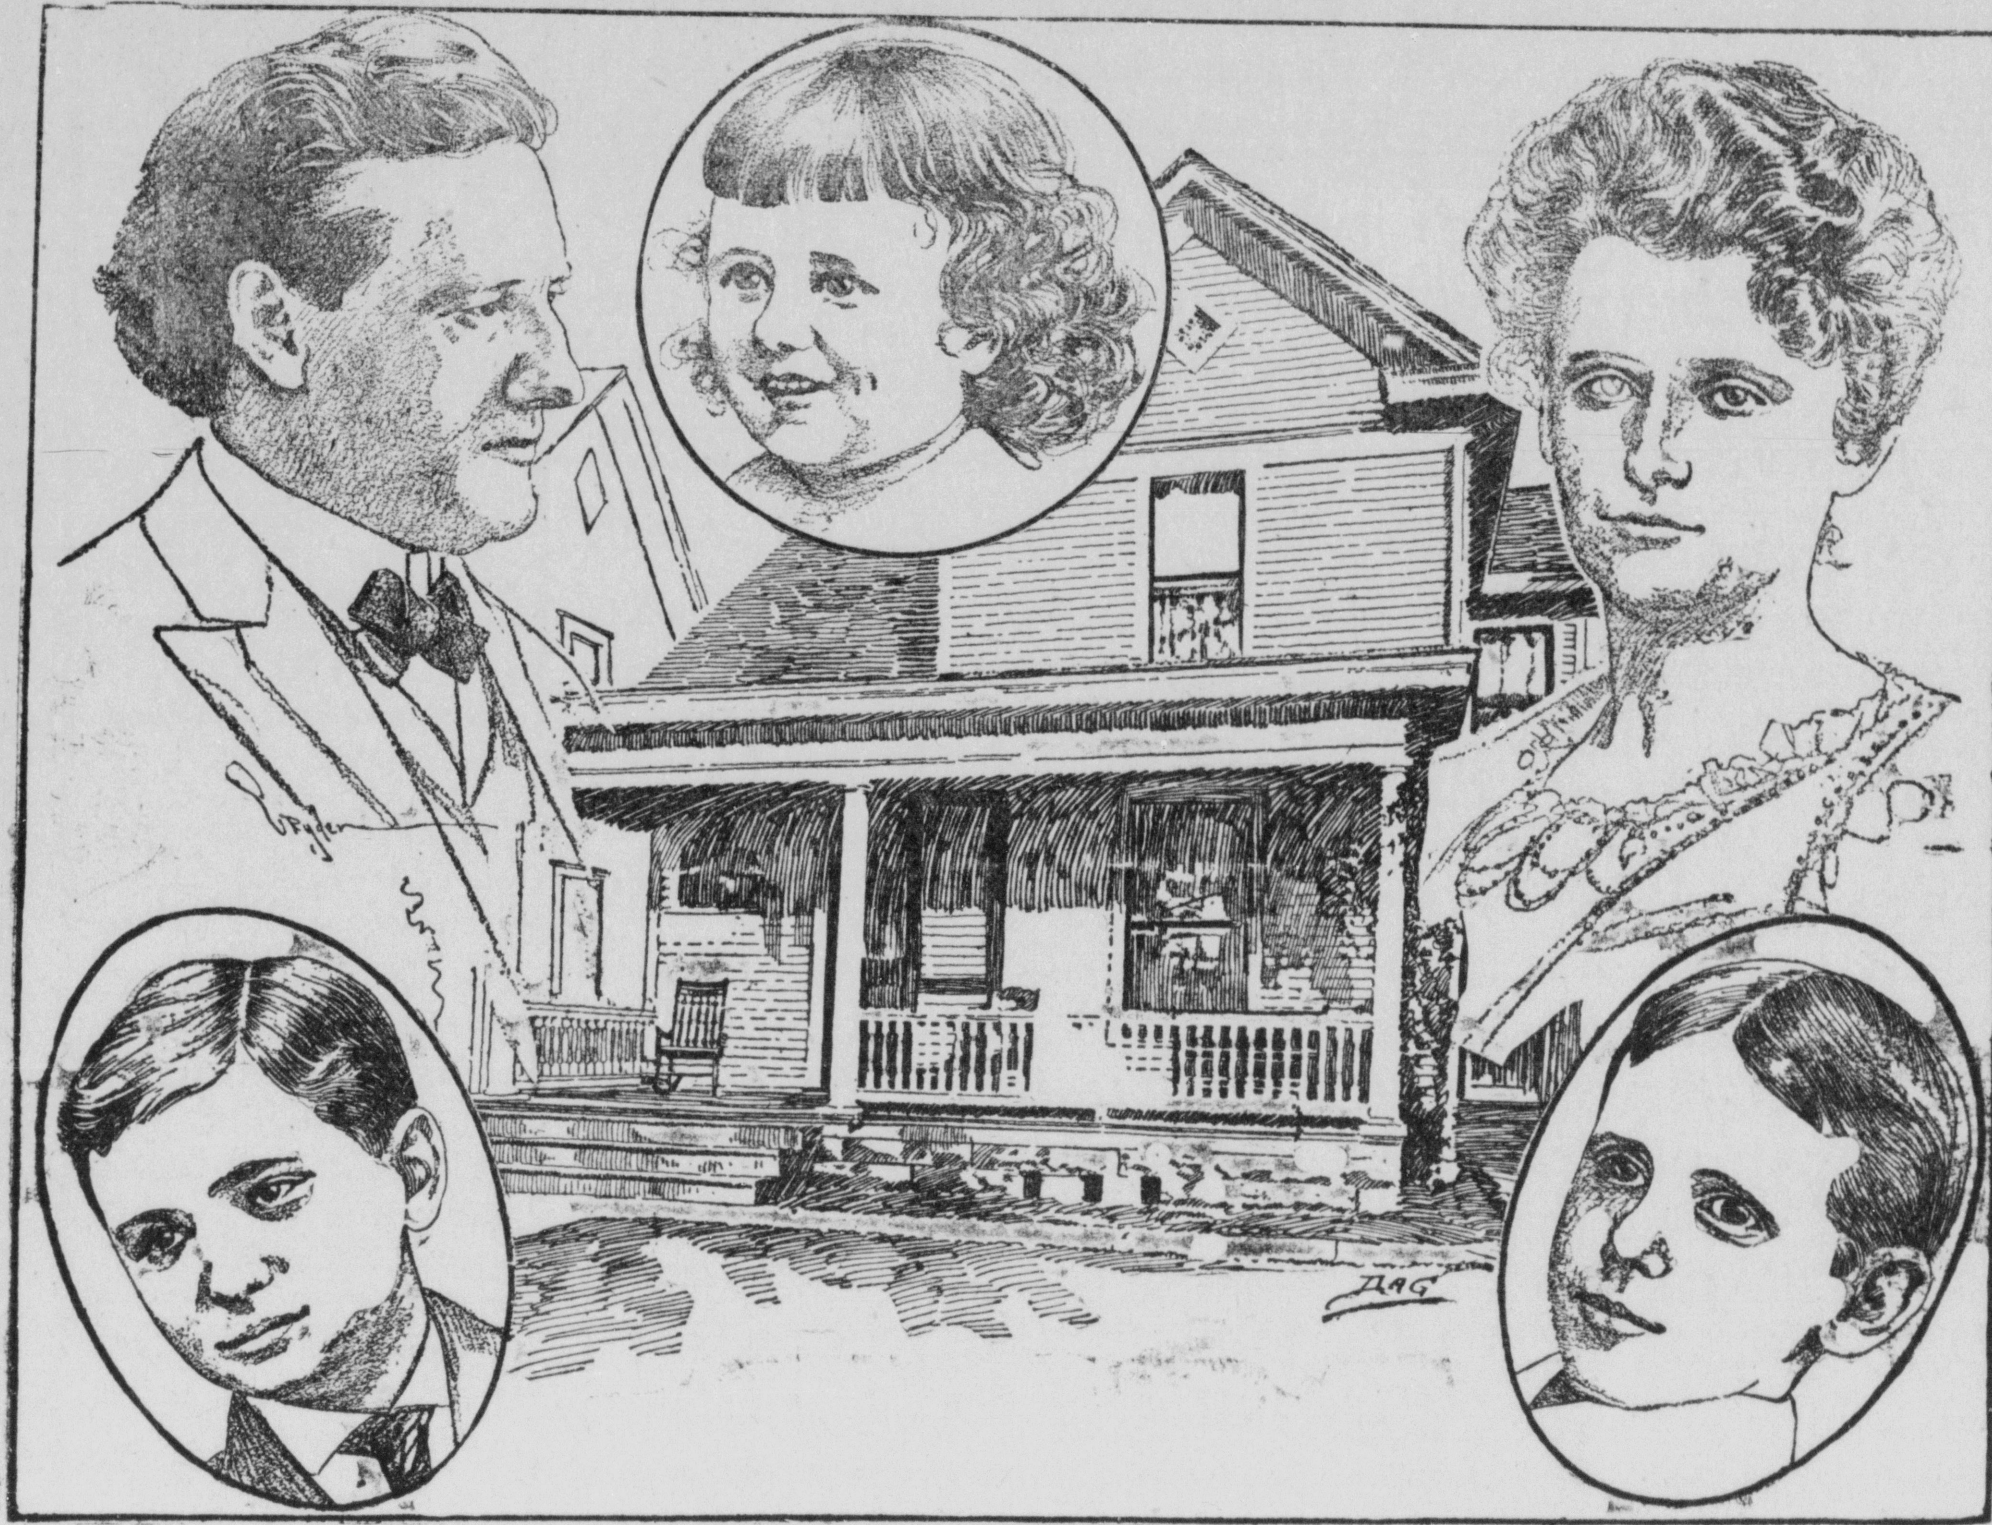

A Republican has but to point to the fact that we have county local option and remonstrance by townships and wards. A Democrat has the alternative of approving the action of the legislature or opposing the law. It matters not which horn of the dilemma Mr. Marshall shall seize, the law has come to stay. The good people of Indiana will never put in power a party opposed to that act.—New Castle Courier.

It will be interesting to see what tack Thomas R. Marshall and the Democratic party will now take on the temperance question. Seems to us, they are up against it. If they endorse it, they endorse the Republican position. If they propose to elect a governor and legislature that will repeal it, they fly against the expressed will of the people of the state.—Rockville Republican.

The Democratic state organization showed that it was as sincere in its opposition to county local option as the Republicans were sincere in its favor.—Martinsville Reporter.

Mr. Watson at Home and In Politics

Career of the Man Who Is Leading the Fight For the Republicans In Indiana.

In presenting James E. Watson of Rushville for the office of governor the Republicans of Indiana do so with a confidence that he is fully qualified to discharge the duties of that high office. Probably no other man in the history of the state ever made the race for governor who was better equipped for that position than is Mr. Watson. He is a young man, but ripe in experience. At the prime of life he has reached a position in congress next in importance to the speakership itself. If he had chosen to continue his congressional career it is conceded that he would have succeeded to the speakership if his party remained in power. But at the urgent solicitation of his friends in every section of Indiana, who for several years desired his election to the governor's office, he voluntarily retires from congress to make the race for the highest office within the gift of his own commonwealth.

There is much of human interest in Mr. Watson's career. The story of his struggles from boyhood through young manhood to his present position is not romantic in any way, but it contains much that furnishes inspiration to young men who have ambition to succeed. Beginning at the bottom in public life, he has risen, not by leaps and bounds, but steadily, to Republican leadership of the house of representatives, which is the greatest lawmaking body in the world. Mr. Watson began his congressional career at an early age. He entered congress after a most picturesque fight with the late William Holman, who was known as "the watchdog of the treasury." Nominated in a district the Democrats had held for many years, Watson's chance did not look bright; but, with a determination and tact that have characterized him in everything he has attempted, he entered the campaign and managed to defeat his able opponent by a comfortable majority. The methods of campaigning that he introduced then attracted attention from one end of the country to the other, and they have since helped to make him the strong figure he is in public life. Mr. Watson spoke in every precinct in Holman's district. He talked to hundreds of people who had never heard Republican doctrine before. He went from house to house and made himself personally acquainted with every voter in the district. While it was not expected that he would win, yet under the circumstances his victory should not have been unexpected.

From that time until the present Mr. Watson has gone on winning victory after victory. His experience during his twelve years in congress has endowed him with many qualities that make him an admirable candidate for governor. His faculties are keen and alert. He is a matchless orator, of ready wit and is full of sympathy for his fellow men. He is a quick thinker and has been a leader in congress almost from the time he became a member. His gifts as a campaigner have helped him to become a national figure. The Republican organization in national affairs has learned to call upon him for assistance under trying conditions. He has never failed to respond to these calls. Two years ago under the auspices of the congressional national committee he spoke in nearly every state in the country. Always ready to respond to his party's call and always well equipped to fight its battles, it is no wonder that his services have been in demand. President Roosevelt himself, just before the recent adjournment of congress, called Mr. Watson to the White House and personally thanked him for his great efforts in helping to bring about the reforms the present administration has accomplished. Two years ago President Roosevelt selected Mr. Watson as his spokesman in that campaign when he wrote to him a letter for publication setting forth his views. Mr. Watson not only has the complete confidence of President Roosevelt, but of the other great men of the nation who are trying to accomplish much needed reforms in public life. It was because of Mr. Watson's record in public as well as in private life and his well known ability to deal with issues in which the people are vitally interested and to capably administer the duties of governor that his party selected him as the standard bearer in this campaign.

Because of the great moral issue involved in the effort to enact the county local option law Mr. Watson's services have been especially noteworthy. He has been the "man of the hour" for this issue. His fearless advocacy of county local option has brought down upon him the abuse of the Crawford-Fairbanks-Lieber brewery combine, which is trying to defeat the Republican candidates and to keep the people from enacting laws for further regulation of the liquor traffic. Mr. Watson struck the keynote of the campaign when he issued the challenge "Shall the brewers rule?" In hopes of ruling the brewers are pursuing a campaign of slander against Mr. Watson that is unequalled in the history of Indiana politics, thereby hoping to arouse a suspicion as to his sincerity in behalf of county local option.

But Mr. Watson's neighbors are the ones who know best regarding the purity of his home life and his good qualities as a father, a husband and a friend. They have had an opportunity to judge for themselves whether or not he is liable to betray any trust, and they have promptly refuted the malicious stories that have been started for the purpose of injuring Mr. Watson with the people who are not in the position of knowing for themselves the exact truth. The following voluntary testimonial from Rushville under the date of Sept. 18 speaks for itself:

"Rumors of derogatory reports circulated in some sections of the state affecting the personal character of the Hon. James E. Watson having reached us, we, the ministers of Rushville, his home city, desire to certify that Mr. Watson stands high among us as a citizen.

"With his neighbors his home life is recognized as ideal. In his church his character has never been questioned for a moment, and his reputation for sobriety and morality is untarnished. His manly stand for temperance is recognized as characteristic of the man and is in harmony with the private life he has led among us and the utterances he made as a citizen long before his present candidacy.

"Virgil W. Tevis, pastor St. Paul's M. E. church.

"W. H. Clark, pastor United Presbyterian church.

"J. F. Cowling, pastor First Presbyterian church.

"W. J. Cronin, pastor Roman Catholic church.

"Richard W. Abberley, pastor Main Street Christian church."

"We have read the foregoing testimonial and hereby indorse the same as being true.

"Will M. Sparks, judge Rush circuit court.

"Earl H. Payne, president People's National bank.

"Theodore Abercrombie, president Rushville National bank.

"L. Link, president Rush County National bank.

"A. B. Irwin, cashier Farmers Bank- ing company.

"J. H. Scholl, superintendent of city schools."

Mr. Watson has lived in a modest way at Rushville for several years. He is an able lawyer, but he has had no corporate connections. He has a most interesting family, consisting of a wife, three sons and a daughter. Another daughter died at the age of five years. Mr. Watson is domestic in his tastes and habits and is devoted to his family. His honesty in public life has never been called into question. When a great ovation was accorded him in a recent convention held in his district he said:

"I come back to you after ten years in congress, and the best and dearest trophy I bear are hands that are absolutely clean."

No one dare say that Mr. Watson's hands are not clean. There has never been a breath of suspicion cast upon any of his public career. He has endeavored to discharge his public duties in a conscientious manner and has done so. In all his congressional career he never cast a vote inimical to organized labor; but, on the other hand, he has assisted in the enactment of many measures for the benefit and protection of the laboring classes. Mr. Watson's sympathies have always been with the men who toil, and his closest friends have been among the laboring classes who have known of his broad views and his kindness of heart. Mr. Watson will be forty-four years old on the day before the election. He was born in Winchester, Ind., in 1864. He is the son of Enos L. Watson, one of the pioneers of that country. Mr. Watson spent his boyhood at Winchester, earning his living by manual labor. He graduated from the Winchester high school and entered De Pauw in 1881. Leaving De Pauw in 1885, he took up the practice of law at Winchester. He identified himself with the Knights of Pythias when he was but twenty-one. He was elected grand prelate of that organization in 1891, in 1892 grand vice chancellor, in 1893 grand chancellor. He originated the idea of district meetings, which have helped upbuild the Pythian order. At Detroit in 1900 he refused to be a candidate for supreme vice chancellor when the position was practically within his grasp. Mr. Watson is a thirty-second degree Mason, a Shriner, an Elk and a member of the Red Men. His college fraternity is the Phi Kappa Psi. Mr. Watson is a member of the St. Paul's M. E. church at Rushville, and he is also a member of its official board. He was elected state president of the Epworth league in 1891, and so satisfactory was his administration that he was re-elected in 1893. From his boyhood he took an active part in politics, and before he was of age he was regarded as an able campaign speaker.

Mr. Watson's career is an open book in which there are no pages for which he or the Republican party, whose candidate he is, will have to apologize. As stated already, his public and private life have fitted him for the office of governor so well that there can be no doubt that he will give the people of Indiana an able and honest administration. He has promised to impartially enforce the laws and has declared that if he is elected he will use his power to prevent the repeal of the county local option law and to see that it is enforced. As a candidate he has honestly and fearlessly met the demands of his party and his people, and he can be relied upon to meet the demands of the office of governor just as honestly and just as fearlessly as he has conducted his campaign.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

REAL SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY

Mr. Taft Given a Gracious Welcome In Kentucky.

CLAIMS STATE AS HIS OWN

Born Within Sight of Kentucky's Hills, the Nominee Declares His Right to Approach That State's Electorate With a Sentimental Appeal, and Is the First Republican Presidential Candidate to Campaign in the Old Blue Grass Commonwealth, Receiving Rousing Receptions

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 16.—Acting on his declaration that "the South is a part of the Union and as such is entitled to be considered in the present campaign," Judge Taft spent yesterday talking in the towns and cities of Kentucky.

He is the first Republican presidential candidate to campaign the Blue Grass state. Mr. Taft will be the first Republican presidential candidate to carry his campaign into Tennessee, North Carolina and Virginia, which he proposes to visit in the next two days. His reception has been a typification of proverbial Southern hospitality. The crowds which greeted him at the dozen places he spoke were large and evinced every phase of political enthusiasm. The attention he received while expounding Republican doctrine was such as to indicate more than passing interest.

Evidently impressed by his cordial reception, the candidate made many references to it during the day. At Lexington, where he addressed an immense audience which filled the largest theater in the city, he said:

"It is a great pleasure to talk to a Kentucky Republican audience. We entered Kentucky at Ashland this morning, and we have every evidence that Kentucky is awake to the importance of placing herself in the Republican column on the third of November next. I don't feel like putting Kentucky in the Solid South or talking to her citizens in the strain which may well be adopted toward the citizens of states further south.

"I was born within the sight of Kentucky's hills. The sacred soil was just across the river from where I spent my boyhood days; I feel as if Kentucky had largely placed herself in a position where we have a right to come to her and treat her as if she were a Republican state. She has a Republican governor. She has a Republican senator, and she has a number of Republican congressmen, and I hope she will have more."

The work of the day for Mr. Taft was begun early in the morning at Huntington, W. Va., where he was taken from the train to a rink and received by thousands. He spoke of the issues and of his confidence that West Virginia depended for her unequalled prosperity on the principles which the Republican party had enforced.

Then came the advent into Kentucky. At Ashland the crowd was big and the cheers of the zipping variety which brings the smile of gratification to the campaigner. "I am overwhelmed by your number," was the first words to the Kentucky audience. "It is a great inspiration to come here and meet you," and then he continued:

"I thank you from the bottom of my heart for your cordial reception. I thank you because I know it indicates that you are Republicans down to the ground, and that you mean to fight for the Republican party and bring Kentucky into the Republican column on the third of November. I wish I had a voice as strong as my hand and as strong as the muscles of my arm, because I would like to have all of you hear me. I would like to shake the hand of each one of you, because I know a thrill of Republicanism would run from your backbone to mine and back again. All I can say is how grateful I am to you for coming here and giving us the courage to believe that Republicanism is going to sweep south of the Ohio river and to give the South the position she ought to have in this government."

IN HIS HOME STATE

Mr. Bryan Concludes a Three Days' "Whirlwind" Tour.

Nebraska City, Neb., Oct. 16.—"I will give five dollars to the Republican campaign committee of this city if the Republicans will carry in their parade this year the banners which they boastfully carried eight years ago."

William J. Bryan last night made this offer during the course of his speeches in this city, in which he called attention to the great difference between his present reception and that accorded him eight years ago. Then he received intimations of personal violence in case he should speak against the trusts, the local starch factory having been taken over by the alleged trust against which legal proceedings were pending. Then he warned the citizens of this city that they had no assurance of retaining the industry. Since that time the factory has been closed down, the machinery moved out and wrecking crews are now dismantling the buildings. Insulting banners were carried in a Republican parade at that time, and last night Mr. Bryan made the above offer, leaving the money with the chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Bryan closed his three-days' speaking tour of his home state with a large meeting in this city last night, feeling that Nebraska can be safely counted in the Democratic column this year by a larger majority than he received in 1896. It was a notable day, both in point of the number of speeches made, the size of the crowds addressed and the vigorous manner in which he spoke to his audiences. A large portion of the day was spent in his old congressional district, and the enthusiasm which had prevailed in his tour of the state was intensified by the fact that these people gave him his first political distinction and have followed him with increasing confidence as he fought his way up the ladder. Yesterday they showed their affection for him by demonstrations at every station, and by crowds declared to be such as the towns and cities had never seen before.

Speaking began early in the morning and continued throughout the day. More than twenty stops were made, and at each place Mr. Bryan talked longer than he had been scheduled for. His addresses were more aggressive than they have been during the week. At Tecumseh he was vehement in his denunciation, among other things saying of Mr. Cannon:

"It used to be said of a noted criminal lawyer that a burglar never entered a house to commit burglary without first making inquiry as to the health of this lawyer, and no man in congress who plans a raid against the American people does so without first getting a promise of recognition from Mr. Cannon, the speaker of the house. He is backed by every predatory corporation in this country."

At that place he also denied that Mr. Roosevelt was the father of the policies which the reformers advocated. "Name a policy of President Roosevelt's that you want continued," he said, "and I will point to a policy that I advocated before President Roosevelt ever advocated it." In discussing the panic he said that Republicans are threatening a panic in case of his election. "There will be a panic in one family," he said, "and that will be the Taft family, for Mr. Taft's federal salary will be withdrawn for the first time in more than twenty years."

MR. SHERMAN MAKES HIT AT JAMESTOWN

Vice Presidential Nominee Well Received In Home State.

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 16.—A day that began with the expounding of Republican doctrine to a number of travelling men in a railroad coach, on the way from Cuba to this place, ended here last night for James S. Sherman in a huge outpouring of voters to listen to the vice presidential candidate's views on campaign issues. Although the local Republican committee had secured the largest available building, the traction company's streetcar barns, an overflow meeting was necessary. A committee of prominent Republicans met Mr. Sherman and his party at Salamanca and escorted them here, where a reception and dinner were given at the Sherman House. His voice last night was in excellent condition and he made a most favorable impression on his audience, who enthusiastically applauded his efforts.

Kern Addressed Tammany.

New York, Oct. 16.—"Should not the fact that men believe that a candidate for the presidency intends, when elected, to violate the pledges made by him and his party, be a most potent reason why honest and patriotic men should withhold their support from him and his house? Should the fact that a candidate for the presidency is regarded as so honest as to be incapable of violating his platform pledges be an argument against his election?"

These questions, put by John W. Kern, Democratic nominee for the vice presidency, to a crowd that filled every available foot of room of Tammany hall last night, were answered by an outburst of cheering the like of which the nominee had not heard since he entered his speaking campaign five weeks ago.

Mr. Kern was given a noisy greeting when he entered the hall, and later when he was joined on the platform by Lieutenant Governor Chanler, the Democratic candidate for governor of New York, the two men were kept busy for several minutes bowing their acknowledgments of the plaudits of the crowd.

ANTHRACITE MINERS

Several Demands Formulated at Convention Just Closed.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 16.—The convention of the anthracite miners' union closed last evening after making public the scale agreed to by the scale committee and approved by the delegates. The demands include:

"The complete recognition of the United Mine Workers of America as a party to negotiate a wage contract and that the United Mine Workers of America shall be recognized in our right to provide any method we may adopt for the collection of revenues for the organization.

"That we demand an eight-hour day with no reduction of wages.

"That all coal shall be mined and paid for by the ton of 2,000 pounds.

"That we demand a definite and more uniform scale of wages and prices for all classes of labor at all collieries in the anthracite region; and that all employees paid $1.50 or less per day shall receive a 10 per cent advance, and all employees paid more than $1.50 and less than $2 per day, shall receive a 5 per cent advance."

After the convention had adjourned President Lewis said that the convention had appointed the national president and the three district presidents to communicate with the representatives of the operators for the purpose of agreeing on a time when a joint conference of the representatives of the miners and operators would be held.
